

GREAT BIG BUNTING OFF!

Each and every young person is unique and we want young people to understand, embrace and celebrate difference and their own unique characteristics, traits and personalities.

To really promote individuality, we're asking young people to take part in creating a public display of art and help break a Guinness World Record for the longest string of bunting - approximately 11 miles!

Also, our Guinness World Record attempt will coincide with the 70th birthday of the NHS on Thursday 5 July 2018.

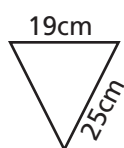

Just as no two people are the same, no two pieces of bunting will be the same. We hope this project will be a celebration of difference and diversity; a reflection of strength, talent and personal expression using a creative medium.

WHAT DO I DO TO GET INVOLVED?

Young people will take part by designing and decorating a section of bunting, showing their personal expression through illustration and ideas. They might also use their section to express how they cope during tough times.

We need you to make as much bunting as possible! Each triangle - will ideally be made with fabric, but you could also use plastic or paper. Decorate using any available materials, such as paint or glitter - be creative!

Each triangle of bunting needs to be 19cm wide and 25cm long. Triangles need to be 5cm apart and bunting measurements must be accurate.

RECOMMENDED WAYS TO DO THIS IN SCHOOL:

- One tutor/ PHSE lesson to discuss and explore the project - generating ideas about personal strengths and talents, helping young people to think about how they might represent their individuality and ideas creatively.
- Spend one art lesson making bunting with young people, using as many different creative techniques and resources as possible.

JUDGING AND DISPLAY:

All the bunting will be displayed and judged on Thursday 5 July 2018 - venue to be confirmed nearer the time.

WHERE DO I SEND THE BUNTING?
